Vine, landscape and people are the starting point for Vilano's wines. The fruit is harvested and selected by hand by families that have nurtured the vines for three, and even, four generations. This sense of community is the basis of Vilano's core identity. Founded as a cooperative in 1957 by the parents and grandparents of the current members, Vilano has grown while remaining faithful to two fundamental priorities: continuous improvement and the preservation of the centennial vineyards that shape its wines and heritage.

Having started with a processing capacity of 300,000 kg of grapes, it now processes up to 2.6 million kg, and is planning further expansion, with the belief that the wines of Ribera del Duero have an ever-growing potential among the world's best. This belief has marked the evolution of the company throughout its half-century of history.

The winery is one of the most historic in Ribera del Duero, founded before it was granted DO status. It has always been committed to both tradition and excellence, as a result of effort, work and, above all, knowledge and passion for the grapes, wines and terroirs of Ribera del Duero. Desiderio Sastre, Vilano's general manager, has developed the company's vision and applied overarching innovations which led Vilano to receive excellent ratings from the world's best critics, as well as numerous international awards.

Vilano's international presence has grown significantly and its wines can be found in some of the best restaurants the world over. Truth and essence are found inside the bottles; aromas and flavours that leave an indelible mark. Each of Vilano's wines encapsulate the history of Ribera del Duero, the stories of each grower, and a step towards a modern vision of the region.

With Tempranillo (Tinto Fino) as the queen variety and inspiration for the whole range, Vilano produces a diverse range that includes a sparkling, a rosado, and seven different reds. These are all fermented in stainless steel, unstemmed and under controlled temperature. After malolactic fermentation has taken place over winter, a preliminary tasting and evaluation of aromatic profile, structure and ageing potential determines which wines will become Crianzas, Reservas or Signature blends.

Each wine will then be aged in selected French, American, central and/or Eastern European oak, with the different origins of the wood contributing with specific aromas and tannins. This is the alchemical process through which the fruit from the 300 hectares of vineyards tended to by Vilano's members become wines that stand for Ribera del Duero's tradition and future potential.
